

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER Proceedings

The peer-reviewed journal of Baylor Scott & White Health

Call for Papers

- No submission fees or publication charges
- Full text freely available on PubMed Central

Baylor University Medical Center Proceedings is the peer-reviewed general medical and surgical journal of Baylor Scott & White Health that presents clinical articles of interest to practitioners. Baylor Scott & White Health is committed to innovation, collaboration, integrity, and compassion for the patient, and the journal attempts to highlight these values. Submissions from outside of the health care system are welcome.

Proceedings has a new emphasis on clinical outcomes, value-based care, and health services research. The new editor in chief, James W. Fleshman, MD, and deputy editor, Robert L. Gottlieb, MD, PhD, invite submissions aligned with these priorities.

Original research and review papers are highly encouraged. Case reports will only rarely be published.

Topics of interest:

- Clinical outcomes studies
- Population health studies
- Community-delivered health care
- Implementation science
- Health care quality
- Health care delivery science
- Value-based health care
- Professionalism

All qualified submissions will be subject to the peer review process.

Journal contact: Cindy Orticio, cynthia.orticio@bswhealth.org